The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

3,728

And they have reached that point in New York where they are discussing whether angels are male or female.

To be, or to have been, an officer in a life insurance company need not necessarily brand a man as infamous.

If Pat Crowe had kidnaped John D. Rockefeller, he wouldn't have been called on to pay much for John's board.

The discovery at Harvard of a new star did not stir up much of a ferment. However, if it had been a football star, there would have been columns about the discovery.

General Bartlett, Democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts, spoke with straightforward strength when in addressing the state convention Saturday he declared: "I have answered your summons. Now I am going to summons you. I ask that you and every one of you when you return to your homes enter into this campaign with a determination to hold up the hands of your leaders and work unceasingly in the fight you have on hand in the interests of our people. And if you answer my call, as I intend to answer yours, somebody will understand that there is to be a fight this fall." Such blunt assertions command attention and they also carry conviction. The man who wants to succeed the shoe man starts off vigorously.

A DEMOCRATIC LOOK.

A "Democrat," writing to the St. Albans Messenger, says that he does not care a continental who the Republicans of Vermont nominate for governor this year, which is not very strange since Democrats never did have more than a whisper in Vermont politics. But his next statement is more interesting, because it is more novel. "Democrat" says that Mr. Clement need not depend upon Democratic votes for his election for the simple reason that he will not get them. Mr. Clement, declared the writer, "tied himself very firmly to the Republican kite last year." We infer that if Mr. Clement had tied himself less firmly to the Republican kite, so that perchance he might have fallen off, then he would have had a Democrat tail to his kite in the coming election. But, also for Mr. Clement's short-sightedness in trying to tie a knot. For Fletcher Proctor the correspondent professes the greatest disdain because Proctor "dare not come out against it (the license law)". So, concludes the correspondent, "We Democrats must again look on and witness the disgraceful spectacle of what money will do in politics." Still there is one consolation remaining for the Democrats of Vermont. They can look down from their virtuous heights and whistle.

A Football Victim.

Chester, Pa., Oct. 9.—John S. Summersgill, aged 31 years, a member of the Franklin football team of this place, died in the hospital here yesterday from injuries received during a game Saturday.

OVERTURES REJECTED.

Made By Venezuela Toward French Government.

Paris, Oct. 9.—Announcement was made today that President Castro of Venezuela has made advances to the French minister toward arranging a settlement of the diplomatic misunderstanding, which has existed for a long time as well as of difficulties existing between his government and the French Cable Company. The overtures were refused by the French minister, however, because he did not consider them sufficient.

Little Hope of Recovery.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 9.—Little hope is held out for the recovery of Mrs. Walter G. Cowles of Hartford, who was injured last night when a train ran into an automobile in which she, her husband, Mrs. L. A. Ready of Hartford, a sister of Mrs. Cowles, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cowles and a chauffeur, were riding. Mr. Cowles' boy was killed almost instantly.

A Very Serious Break.

Now that Senator Proctor has signified his intention of presenting a sanatorium for curing tuberculosis it has been suggested that Percival W. Clement present a Keeley cure to go with his local option law. Rutland News.

This brilliant sally is probably considered humorous in certain circles. It is really a remarkably unwise and pernicious interference. In the first place by inference it places upon Senator Proctor's generous gift to Vermont the mean and sordid brand of political self-interest. The bitterest foes of the senator wouldn't do that. It has remained for the most slavish and fawning of the Proctor organs to perpetrate such an incredible breach of good taste.

In the second place, P. W. Clement doesn't own any copyright on the local option law. It is a statute of the state, made and adopted by her representatives, in which Clement men were in a hopeless minority. It is not Clement's law any more than Proctor's. It is Vermont's, regardless of party, creed or personality.

Sen. Proctor might very wisely curb such forensic brilliance on the part of his misguided advocate. Ludlow Tribune.

"LET US RAISE CROPS."

Said John D. Rockefeller to His Sunday School Class.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 9.—In his closing talk to the Sunday school class of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, of which he is superintendent, John D. Rockefeller yesterday made a comparison of the crops that grow in the field and the crops that may be cultivated by each person that will be of more benefit than those which grow in the ground. Mr. Rockefeller referred to personal virtues and in part he said:

"I don't know how many of you children have been in the country this year, but many of you have come to see me at my home and have made me happy."

"I want to ask you what crops you have harvested this year. I won't find fault if you have not done very well, nor if you have forgotten, for we older ones do the same thing, but struggle along again and resolve to do better. I want to suggest to you children that you foster the spirit that prompts us to speak a kindly word and that extends the hand heartily. Some of us have not had much education, some of us never graduated from college, but we can raise crops just the same."

"I feel like a sponge because I have absorbed so many blessings during my stay in the city, but I remind you that we should be like the pump which not only sucks up, but also gives out. If you will cultivate the virtues that I have mentioned you can make a heaven on earth for yourselves and for all those with whom you associate."

SCHEME HAS COLLAPSED.

Salvation Army Will Not Establish a Colony in Australia.

London, Oct. 9.—The colonizing scheme of General Booth of the Salvation Army appears to have collapsed as far as Australia is concerned. General Booth proposed to send out 5,000 families provided the Australian government would give them land. The government announced willingness to consider the scheme, but the colony called loudly for a process of selection in order to prevent the immigration of needy colonists. As a result General Booth has called Alfred Deakin, prime minister of Australia, expressing his regret that owing to these difficulties, he cannot proceed with an effort that is likely to involve a conflict.

NORWICH WON.

Defeated Fort Ethan Allen, 5 to 0, Saturday Afternoon.

Fort Ethan Allen, Oct. 9.—The first football game of the season for the post team on the post gridiron occurred Saturday afternoon, when, before a large number of spectators, they were successful in holding the Norwich team down to one touchdown, the visitors winning the game by the score of 5 to 0. The men expected that the cadets would have a walk-over, but when they found that they were able to hold the cadets down, they got reckless and allowed one touchdown. The score of the game should have been 6 to 0. Enthusiasm has now been increased immensely in football and the post team is now looking forward with much interest to the game with the 5th infantry team, which will occur next Saturday.

EXPECT 500 TEACHERS.

Montpelier Is Planning Accommodations for Them.

Montpelier, Oct. 9.—The committee in charge of the entertainment of the school teachers at the State Institute from October 19 to 21, inclusive, to be held in Montpelier, was announced today. It is expected that 500 teachers will be present. Accommodations for that number are being arranged. The list of places furnished by the Centennial committee has been turned over to the teachers' entertainment committee. The morning sessions of the institute will be held at the State House, and the afternoon and evening sessions at Bethany church and the high school. State Superintendent of Education Stone left this morning on a week's trip through Huntington, Starksboro, Bristol, Hinesburgh and South Hero.

No Discourtesy Intended.

A young sport with loud lingo and a Panama hat, a cigarette and a pearl-handled "parasol," got off the eastbound train Wednesday. He walked over town and dropped into a restaurant on Main street and ordered a real cutlet. The waiter soon brought in the order and placed it before his Nibs the Sport. "Do you call that a real cutlet? Why, that's an insult to a calf to call that a real cutlet," said the sassy boy. "I didn't mean to insult you, sir," said the waiter. Sapulpa, I. T., Light.

Pure Foods.

The pressure of business competition leads unscrupulous manufacturers to defy both state and national food laws through putting up concoctions composed of noxious chemicals, impure alcohol and colored water which are brazenly labelled flavoring extracts.

Such tricky and injurious compounds do not contain a particle of vanilla, lemon, orange, or any other fruit flavor from which genuine flavoring extracts are prepared. Occasionally a maker of such bogus goods is arrested, convicted and punished for his gross imposition upon the purchasing public.

While the actual flavor sought by the user of these trashy compounds is not secured, often harm results to members of families partaking of cooked articles prepared from same. These, too, not infrequently, doctor's bills for the victims of these noxious compounds ensue, making their use alike disastrous and expensive. Pure goods prove ultimately to be the cheapest, the most healthful and the most satisfactory.

One of the flavoring extracts longest and most favorably known is Baker's, which complies with all food laws; and, in so doing, uses the best of all materials entering into its several flavors which are alike pure, strong and reliable. Every bottle of Baker's Extracts is guaranteed alike as to quantity and quality.

Healthful, delicious and reliable, these goods command the confidence and admiration of all housewives who are particular as to the quality of the flavorings which enter into their cooking.
